Boarding life is characterised by the formation of enduring friendships. Students share in each other’s joys, successes and disappointments. They are challenged to appreciate the strengths and individuality of others, and they begin to establish their own personal goals and visions for the future.

Scotch College has an outstanding reputation for the standard of its academic programme and extensive sporting, outdoor and cultural activities. Enrolment in the Boarding School at Scotch provides boys with an education of the highest standard in combination with accommodation in a caring, well equipped environment. The boarding lifestyle represents an integrated, comprehensive package for the education of a student from the country or overseas.
The Boarding House

On the ‘Hill’ overlooking the Scotch Senior School, the College’s 160 boarders live in one of three separate boarding houses: School House, McMeckan House and Arthur Robinson House. The houses are set around a broad drive and are surrounded by trees and beautiful, well-manicured gardens.

Supervision

Each of the three boarding houses is well staffed. Houses are under the direction of a Head of House, who is a member of the teaching staff and resides in the house with his or her family. Two other members of staff are also resident in each house, with two other staff members living with their families in flats and houses either on the grounds or nearby.

Each house has a School Chaplain attached to the house, who assists in providing pastoral support, as well as a House Manager/Matron who looks after laundry, sewing and basic first aid. Overall responsibility for ‘The Hill’ rests with the Dean of Boarding, who also lives on site with his family.

In all, there are about 20 members of staff providing care and guidance for the boys.

Where do boarders come from?

Some 70 per cent of boarders are from rural Victoria and southern New South Wales, about one third of them being farmers’ sons. Of the remaining two thirds, most come from families who depend on the rural sector for their livelihood.

Approximately 30 percent of boarders are from overseas. Some are sons of expatriate Australians living in South-East Asia and elsewhere; others are sons of families from a wide variety of countries including Singapore, Malaysia, Hong Kong, China, the Middle East, USA and Europe.

Boarders are members of almost every classroom, sporting team and interest group in the Scotch Senior School. By virtue of the diversity of experiences that boarders bring with them, this group of boys makes an enormous and essential contribution to the character of the School.
Facilities

Boarders are able to use the College’s excellent facilities to their fullest potential. The Centre for Learning is open on weekdays from 8am to 5pm with teachers available for additional tutoring from 3.30pm to 5pm. The extensive school grounds and most of the sporting facilities are available for use by boarders during leisure hours.

With artificial grass tennis courts, an indoor heated swimming pool and diving pool, squash courts, weight training room, gymnasium, basketball courts and over 27 hectares of grounds, boarders have the best backyard in Melbourne in which to expend their energy.

Bedrooms and studies

In Years 7 to 11 boys sleep in small dormitory groups, with the numbers in each dormitory reducing as boys advance through the College. Years 7 to 10 boarders complete their homework in the ‘Prep rooms’ where each boy has his own desk in an open plan area. Years 11 and 12 have a desk in their rooms with the Year 12 boys residing in their own single room.

Music practice rooms

Many boarders learn musical instruments and make use of the College’s practice rooms located in the James Forbes Academy as well as an allocated room in each house for practice.
Computers
At Scotch we have a Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) policy. This allows families to make their own decision about the type and brand of device that their son uses. Boys access technology at Scotch College via their device. They also have access in the Technology Labs, the Library and specialist areas of the School. Boys have wireless internet access across the entire campus, including the boarding precinct, on their device, and can connect to the School’s Learning Management System.

Recreation rooms
There are recreation rooms in each house, providing comfortable areas for conversation, listening to music or reading. Table tennis tables, billiard tables and gaming consoles in the ‘rec’ rooms are well used. A kitchenette is also available for preparing beverages and light snacks.

Laundry
A laundry is located in the boarding house complex and is operated on weekdays by College staff. Boarders are not required to do their own washing and ironing; each house has an area where boys leave their laundry and where it is collected and returned to each boy’s individual pigeonhole. Sewing is also performed for the boys by the House Manager or her assistant. This service is included in the fees.

Shopping centre
A small shopping precinct is located one block from the College, in Glenferrie Road. These shops, which include a small supermarket, post office and newsagency, allow boarders to purchase incidental items and the occasional takeaway snack.

Leave to visit these neighbourhood shops, known as ‘street leave’, is obtained from the person on duty on weekdays after school and on weekends. Younger year levels travel in groups when on street leave.

Telephones and email
Parents can contact the boarding staff via a dedicated duty phone or via email to the Head of House. Each boy also has a Scotch email address through which parents can communicate with their son.
Care

Academic assistance
Homework is supervised on weekday evenings by the Head of House or one of his or her assistants. Help is never far away, whether from a member of staff, an older boy, or from a student in the same year level. There is a structured approach to study to ensure all students perform to the best of their ability. The first session of ‘prep’ is a quiet time where each boy works on his own without interruption. In the second part of prep boys can seek help from each other and work in groups, as required.

English and Mathematics tutors visit the boarders each week during prep time and are available to any boy requiring additional help. Scotch has a strong tradition of boys continuing to university, with the two most popular tertiary institutions being the University of Melbourne and Monash University. Some boys study overseas and others choose to join the workforce or take a gap year once completing their Year 12. Careers guidance is provided to boys and families through the School’s Course and Careers Centre.

Meals
The boys from all three houses come together for all meals, which are served in a communal Dining Hall adjacent to the living accommodation. The food is of high standard and is prepared in a modern kitchen, staffed by professional chefs and their assistants.

Every endeavour is made to ensure that each boy receives a balanced diet, and there is sufficient quantity for healthy appetites. Consultation with a diettian takes places regularly and a ‘food committee’ comprising senior boys across the three Houses meets with the Head Chef on a fortnightly basis. Boys with special food requirements are catered for within limits and all meals are supervised by staff.

Medical
The College doctor holds clinics one lunchtime each week. The doctor is also available on request and, together with other consultants used by the College, provides a full range of medical services to ensure the health of boarders.

The boarders’ health centre is well equipped, with a six-bed ward, convalescence room, doctor’s consulting room, dispensary and accommodation for nurses. A resident nurse lives on site, providing 24 hours a day, seven days a week care. Whenever boys are admitted to the health centre parents and/or guardians are contacted as soon as possible.

Full fee paying overseas students are covered by the Australian Government’s Overseas Student Health Scheme. Documentation for this scheme and payment of the annual subscription are organised by the College. The scheme covers 85 per cent of the scheduled fee for a consultation with a doctor and full cover in a shared ward in any public hospital.

Boys who are Australian residents and permanent citizens are covered by the national health insurance scheme, Medicare. They may take out additional private insurance if desired.

Chemist supplies
Located within easy walking distance of the College, the local chemist provides a source of medical items, which are charged to a boy’s school account. If required, the nurse can place an order with the chemist and the item(s) are delivered to the Health Centre.

Banking
Each boarding house has its own banking system, allowing boys access to pocket money as needed. This provides a safe deposit, an advisory control over boys’ spending, and gives the Heads of Houses knowledge of boys’ expenditure.

Travel
Assistance is provided to boys at the end of term when they are returning home. This includes organised transport for trips to the airport and Melbourne’s major train station, Southern Cross Station.

Uniform
Two uniform supply shops are located just a short distance by tram from the school. Boarders can have an account set up at the shops to enable them to purchase anything that may be required. The School also runs a second hand uniform shop on campus known as the Swap Shop. Boarders are able to purchase items from there and have the cost placed on their school account.
The weekday routine

Boarders rise at about 7am, in time for breakfast in the Dining Hall between 7.20am and 8.15am. Following breakfast, there is time to gather books, before strolling down the Hill in time for the start of school at 8.35am. Year 7 boys collect their lunch in the day school while the Years 8 – 12 boys return for lunch in the Dining Hall, departing for further classes that begin in the afternoon.

When lessons conclude, many students are involved in sports training. Others may go to the Centre for Learning for further study or return to their boarding house. They may continue to work, or relax with friends, play computer games, listen to music or practise musical instruments.

Dinner commences at 6pm and is followed by a study period, between 7pm and 8.45pm. The boys may then relax, perhaps with a cup of hot chocolate or coffee in their house’s recreation room. If necessary, they may decide to continue with their studies, from 9.30pm until bedtime.
On weeknights, each house holds a house meeting. All boys get together to hear announcements, any congratulations to individual boys and other housekeeping matters.

Bedtime varies from 9.20pm for Year 7 to 10.30pm for Year 11. Since Year 12 students have their own rooms, they can study until late in the evening when examinations and deadlines for assignments are imminent.

Weekend activities

All boys appreciate the break in the busy weekday routine that a weekend provides. There is plenty of activity on weekends. While older boys often have homework to complete and may need to study for forthcoming exams and tests, there is much more for boarders to do. The School’s Activity Coordinator organises a wide range of trips and activities, which have included snowsports, fishing, paint ball, shopping trips and many more.

Interschool sport

On Saturday mornings, school sporting teams of all age groups compete against teams from other private schools. Participation in the program is compulsory and there are up to 20 different sports to choose from, varying in different levels of ability. Scotch has an outstanding reputation for sportsmanship and success in these competitions.

Television and in-house cinema

The television rooms in each house are fitted with a home cinema and boys can watch DVDs and free-to-air or cable television.
Melbourne city

Because Scotch College is located only a short train or tram ride from the centre of Melbourne, Australia’s second largest city, boarders have the opportunity to be exposed to and benefit from its cultural life.

Large groups frequently go to sporting events, theatre, art galleries, special exhibitions and the cinema, often at a cost considerably less than normal. Boys may also obtain city leave on weekends for these activities.

Visiting friends

Where parents have given permission for boarders to visit friends, Heads of Houses grant leave for these visits on weekends.

Leisure sports

Weekends are often a time for informal games between boarders. Boys might choose to play tennis, or perhaps kick a football on one of the School’s many ovals.

The Glenn Centre, the College’s indoor sporting complex, is open on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Boarders may swim in the heated swimming and diving pool, under the supervision of duty staff, or use the other facilities of the centre for a game of squash, basketball, badminton or volleyball.

Socials

Boarders are often invited to socials conducted by local private girls’ and coeducational schools. Heads of Houses ensure that arrangements for transport and other details are appropriate. Activities with neighbouring girls’ schools are also held at Scotch.

Dancing classes for Year 10 boys are held, in conjunction with girls from local schools such as Methodist Ladies’ College.
Chapel
All boarders attend Chapel each Sunday evening, helping to remind boys of the spiritual dimension to their lives.

Boarders’ revue
The annual musical revue provides an opportunity for boarders to display their theatrical talents. The presentation varies in style from year to year, but involves acting, singing, backstage work and cooperative activity that the boys find thoroughly enjoyable.
Leave

All leave for the boys is managed and granted online with a program called Boardingware. This portal allows parents, staff and boys to put requests in for leave. The boys are required to log their leave type, whether it is ‘on campus sport’ or leaving the school grounds. For all leave involving boys leaving the school grounds, a duty staff member has to give final approval. For leave where boys wish to visit another family, permission has to be granted by parents or guardians as well.

There is one long weekend of three or four days, three times in the year, called an ‘exeat’, in which all boarders leave the boarding school. The exeat provides boarders with a change of routine and country boys the opportunity to visit their parents. Overseas students usually stay with friends in Melbourne, or travel with country boarders to their homes.

One weekend a term is a ‘closed’ weekend for inter-house activities. Overnight leave is not granted for this weekend, when various excursions and competitions take place as each house tries to win the coveted Wedderburn Cup.

Scholarships

Scholarships for entry at Year 7, Year 9 and Year 10 are available. Some boarding scholarships are not solely based on academic performance. These scholarships provide an opportunity for boys to attend Scotch, whose families might not have the means to finance a Scotch education.
